

Advice

From our long standing position as industry leaders in the provision of storage equipment across a broad range of industries and applications our experienced and knowledgeable sales people, engineers and project managers can provide a valuable insight into solving our customer's storage requirements whatever they are.

Drawing on this considerable experience we can help and advise our customers on not only their storage requirements but the activities and facilities around the storage equipment itself. This can cover a wide range of areas such as;

- Warehouse layout
- Material handling equipment
- Location labeling
- Material flow
- Picking methods
- Sprinkler systems

In addition to providing more general advice and guidance to our customers on their storage requirements Constructor can go further in providing practical assistance and advice to our customers through a more detailed analysis of their storage requirements.